Great Cumbrae Island

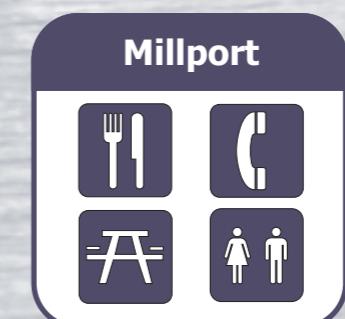

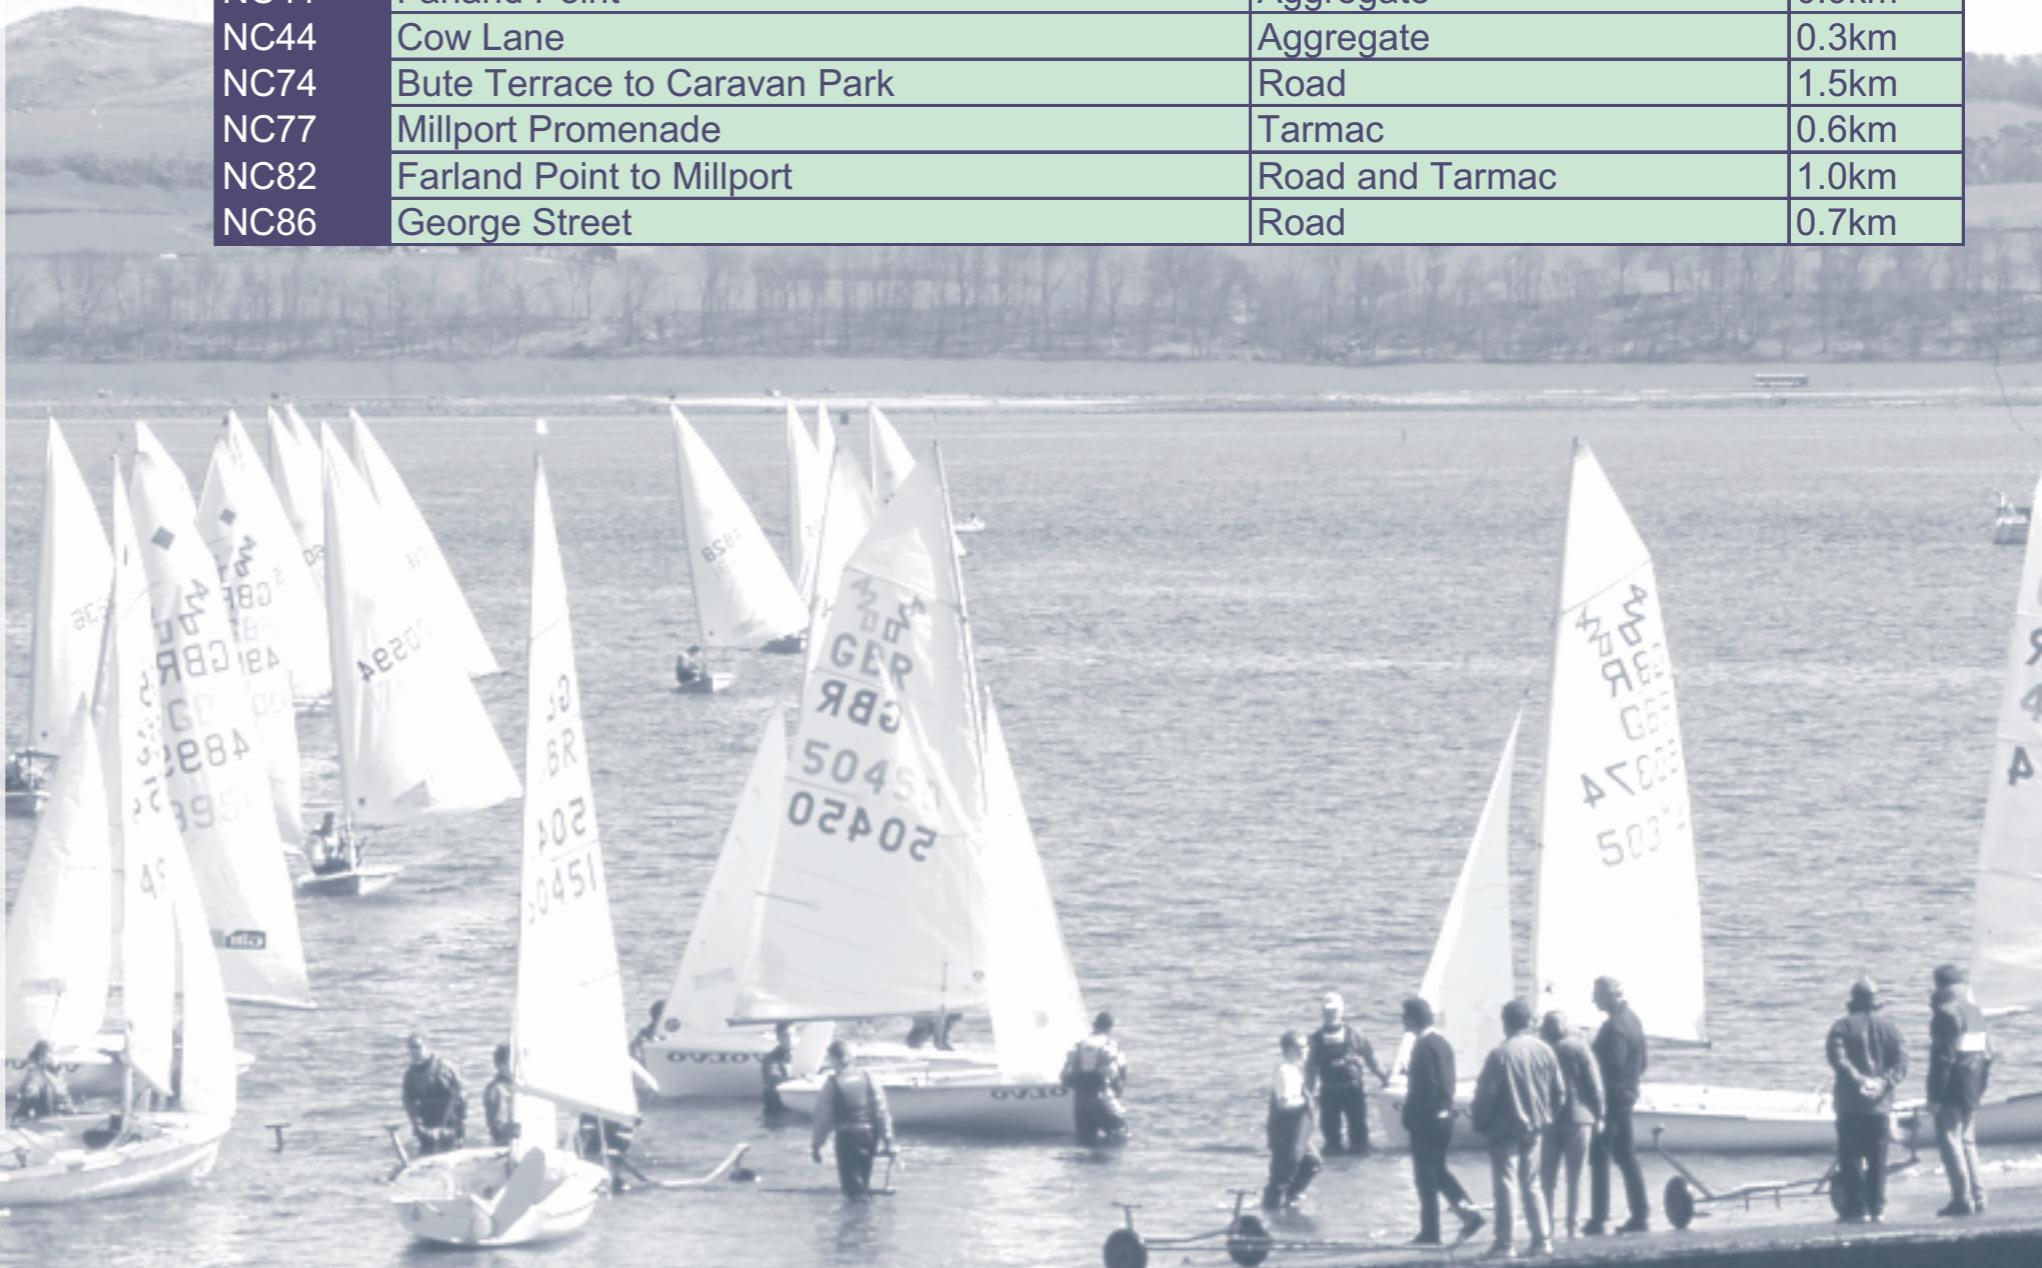

Cumbrae Sensory Trail

The Island of Cumbrae Initiative Tourism Group developed the Cumbrae Sensory Trail in 2008 in partnership with North Ayrshire Council and the Leader Programme. The Sensory Trail takes you around Cumbrae's 11-mile coastline, giving you the opportunity to delight in the island's nature and wildlife, sandy bays and pebble beaches, sea life and beautiful scenery.

There are five Sensory Point Markers on the Trail where you can pause to indulge and stimulate your senses in peaceful and calming surroundings. These are at five coastal locations around the Island namely, Ballochmartin Bay, Farland Point, Sheriff's Port, Fintry Bay and White Bay. With the help of the audio guide, you can see, taste, smell, touch and listen to aspects of Cumbrae and relax and unwind through this enjoyable and invigorating sensory experience. You can cycle, walk or drive around the Trail. All markers are near the roadside, apart from Farland Point, which is a short, but level walk.

Look out for the ball at the top of the Sensory Point Markers - touch all five and take with you the gift of luck from the Islanders! The Trail can be enjoyed all year round, with the different seasons offering their own unique charm, from the seal colony in winter, to primroses and bluebells in spring, orchids and wild flowers in summer and a glorious display of colour in autumn.
